The framework loan (FL) will finance renewable energy and battery energy storage projects in Greece. The aim is to contribute to the EU-wide target of 42.5% of energy from renewable sources in gross final energy consumption (RES) for 2030, in line with the revised EU Renewable Energy (RE) Directive.

Storage solutions are essential to regulating intermittency and boosting energy system flexibility as the nation aims to generate 80% of electricity from renewables by 2030. This changing scenario offers utility-scale battery storage and grid-balancing infrastructure investors in one of Europe's.

Greece's renewable energy market offers precisely this compelling combination. The country that gave us democracy is now pioneering an equally transformative revolution—a green energy transition that's reshaping its economic landscape. With over 250 days of sunshine annually and windswept islands.

The Greek government has opened for applications a programme that will subsidise businesses to install energy storage systems, either as part of new solar projects or as an addition to existing plants. Battery energy storage systems (BESS) License: CC0 1.0 Universal (CC0 1.0) Public Domain.

Greece recently announced a plan to fast-track standalone storage projects, pushing toward its 2030 goal of 4.3GW of battery storage. At EuroEnergy, we recognize BESS technology as a key enabler of a resilient power system. Since 2023, we have been developing a 60MW pipeline of BESS projects in.

The energy transition in Greece is progressing rapidly, with ambitious targets set for 2030 in the National Energy and Climate Plan (NECP), which is currently under public consultation. The country aims to increase the share of renewable energy sources (RES) in its final energy consumption to 45%.
