Should Indonesia choose LFP over lithium-ion batteries?

As a middle-income country, Indonesia and its population might prefer LFP over lithium-ion ones if cheaper. Iron Wins, Would Indonesia Follow?

Even though the data suggests that LFP batteries are more sustainable than nickel-based ones, Indonesia might be reluctant to adopt this pathway.

What is the demand for lithium-ion batteries in Indonesia?

The growing population and the rising income level in Indonesia are driving the demand for consumer electronics such as smartphones, tablets, and smartwatches in the country. This is expected to boost the demand for lithium-ion batteries in Indonesia in the coming years.

What is the global lithium iron phosphate battery market size?

The global lithium iron phosphate battery market size was estimated at USD 8.25 billion in 2023 and is projected to reach USD 17.48 billion by 2030, growing at a CAGR of 10.5% from 2024 to 2030.

What is the global demand for lithium ion batteries?

According to industry statistics, by 2030, the global demand for lithium-ion batteries will exceed 5,100 GWh, of which the demand for lithium iron phosphate batteries is expected to account for the largest share, reaching 3,000 GWh, or over 60%.

Why should Indonesia shift from lithium-ion to LFP?

Why Should Indonesia Shift This is where the paradox is (almost) solved; LFP has been proven to be more environmentally friendly than lithium-ion batteries (Wang & Sun, 2012). More or less, since LFP does not contain either cobalt or nickel, two metals notorious for environmentally damaging extraction methods.

Will LBM sell lithium iron phosphate cathode material to LG Energy Solution?

The two parties agreed that from this year to 2028, LBM will sell a total of 160,000 tons of lithium iron phosphate cathode material products to LG Energy Solution, making LBM the first Chinese lithium iron phosphate material enterprise to win a substantial order from a well-known overseas battery manufacturer.
